SECTION 5 | HEDGE FUND RISK DISCLOSURE

In terms of Board Notice 571 of 2008 published by the Registrar of Financial Services Providers on 14 July 2008, all hedge fund managers are required by the Registrar to disclose the risks and characteristics of hedge funds to their clients. As such RCIS hereby disclose the following:

The risks and characteristics within represent some of the more general risks and characteristics prevalent in hedge fund portfolios. The list below should not be seen as exhaustive. As more risks and characteristics are identified that were not initially mentioned, these will, as they become more prevalent, be included herein.

5.1 Investment strategies may be inherently risky

Hedge fund strategies may include leverage, short-selling and short-term investments. In addition, hedge fund portfolios often invest in unlisted instruments, low-grade debt, foreign currency and other exotic instruments. All of these expose investors to additional risk. However, not all hedge fund managers employ any or all of these strategies and it is recommended that investors consult their advisors in order to determine which strategies are being employed by the relevant manager and which consequent risks arise.

5.2 Leverage usually means higher volatility

Hedge fund managers may use leverage. This means that the hedge fund manager borrows additional funds, or trades on margin, in order to amplify his investment decisions. This means that the volatility of the hedge fund portfolio can be many times that of the underlying investments. The degree to which leverage may be employed in any given hedge fund portfolio will be limited by the mandate the client has with the manager. The limits laid down by the mandate should be carefully reviewed in making an investment decision.

5.3 Short-selling can lead to significant losses

Hedge fund managers may borrow securities in order to sell them short, in the hope that the price of the underlying instrument will fall. Where the price of the underlying instrument rises, the client can be exposed to significant losses, given that the manager is forced to buy securities (to deliver to the purchaser under the short sale) at high prices.

5.4 Unlisted instruments might be valued incorrectly

Hedge fund managers may invest in unlisted instruments where a market value is not determined by willing buyers and sellers. The hedge fund manager may have to estimate the value of such instruments, and these estimates may be inaccurate, leading to an incorrect impression of the fund's value. Investors should ensure that objective valuations are performed for all instruments in a portfolio and that the manager utilises the services of a competent administrator.

5.5 Fixed income instruments may be low-grade

Hedge fund managers may invest in low-grade bonds and other fixed interest investments. These investments are more likely to suffer from defaults on interest or capital. They are also more likely to have volatile valuations when the market changes its view on credit risk. The mandate should also limit the extent (i.e. lowest acceptable rating and maximum percentage exposure) to which low-grade debt can be acquired by the client. Investors should review the mandate to gain an appreciation of the maximum possible exposure applicable to the relevant mandate.

5.6 Exchange rates could turn against the fund

A hedge fund manager might invest in currencies other than the base currency. For example, a South African hedge fund manager might invest in UK or US shares. The portfolio is therefore exposed to the risk of the rand strengthening or the foreign currency weakening.

5.7 Other complex investments might be misunderstood

In addition to the above, hedge fund managers might invest in complex instruments such as, but not limited to, futures, forwards, swaps, options and contracts for difference. Many of these will be derivatives, which could increase volatility. Many will be "over-the-counter", which could increase counterparty risk. Many exotic instruments may also be challenging for the manager to administer and account for properly. Investors should inquire into how these instruments are objectively and independently valued.

5.8 The client may be caught in a liquidity squeeze

Given their often short-term nature, hedge fund managers need to be able to disinvest from or close certain positions quickly and efficiently. But market liquidity is not always stable, and if liquidity were to decrease suddenly, the hedge fund manager might be unable to disinvest from or close such positions rapidly or at a good price, which may lead to losses.

5.9 The prime broker or custodian may default

Hedge fund managers often have special relationships with so-called "prime" brokers. These are stockbrokers that provide the required leveraging and shorting facilities. Prime brokers usually require collateral for these facilities, which collateral is typically provided using assets of the relevant client, and consequently such collateral might be at risk if the prime broker were to default in some way. A similar situation could occur with the custodian of the client's funds.

5.10 Regulations could change

Legal, tax and regulatory changes could occur during the term of the investor's investment in a hedge fund portfolio that may adversely affect it. The effect of any future legal, tax and regulatory change or any future court decision on a hedge fund portfolio could be substantial and adverse.

5.11 Past performance might be theoretical

Hedge fund portfolios are on occasion marketed using theoretical or paper track records. Past performance is seldom a reliable indicator of future performance. Theoretical past performance is often an even less reliable indicator, and investors should place a lower significance on these.

5.12 The manager may be conflicted

The hedge fund manager might be managing other hedge fund portfolios or other traditional investment funds. The investor should ensure that sufficient controls are in place to manage any conflicts of interest between the different funds.

5.13 Hedge fund structures are often complex

As mentioned above, hedge fund structures are not fully regulated and they are often housed in legal structures not originally meant for pooled hedge funds, for example partnerships and companies. Given the many risks listed above, investors need to ensure that any structure is robust enough to contain any unlimited losses.

5.14 Manager accountability may be vague

Hedge fund portfolios are often managed by specific individuals and investors should ensure that sufficient controls are in place for the times when the manager is being covered for by colleagues. In addition, a hedge fund structure (for example, a fund of funds) and its managers or advisors may rely on the trading and/or investing expertise and experience of third-party managers or advisors, the identity of which may not be disclosed to investors. This constitutes an additional risk for investors, which they must take into account.

5.15 Fees might be high

Hedge fund structures' fees may be significantly higher than the fees charged on traditional investment hedge funds. Investments should be made only where the potential returns justify the higher fees.

5.16 Fees might be performance-based

Hedge fund manager's fees are usually performance-based. This means that the managers typically get a higher fee when their portfolios outperform specified performance targets, which might lead to riskier positions being taken. Investors need to ensure that performance fees allow for a fair sharing of both the good and the bad.

5.17 Transaction costs might be high

Given the often short-term nature of investment positions, hedge fund portfolios are often traded more aggressively. This implies more stockbroking commission and charges being paid from the portfolio, which is ultimately for the client's account. Again, investments should be made only where the potential returns make up for the costs.

5.18 Transparency might be low

A hedge fund manager's performance is often the result of unique proprietary strategies or contrarian investment positions. For obvious reasons, managers will want to keep these confidential. Managers are therefore less likely to disclose trades to their investors, and holdings might be disclosed only in part or with a significant delay.

5.19 Dealing and reporting might be infrequent

A hedge fund manager's performance can often be disturbed by irregular cash flows into or out of the hedge fund structure. For this reason, hedge fund managers often limit the frequency of investments and withdrawals. Similarly, the manager may choose to report infrequently on performance and other statistics. Investors should ascertain, prior to investing, the nature and frequency of reporting.

5.20 Withdrawals might not be easy

As mentioned above, the frequency of withdrawals might be limited to monthly or quarterly dates. In addition, the manager may impose notice periods or lock-ins in order to ensure that they have the necessary time for their investment positions to deliver their desired returns.

SECTION 6 | TERMS AND CONDITIONS

- 6.1 Should you require any financial planning assistance or investment advice, please consult your financial advisor. RCIS is an authorised manager of collective investment schemes in Hedge Funds in terms of the Collective Investment Schemes Control Act ("CISCA") but is not and is not required to be an authorised financial services provider in terms of the Financial Advisory and Intermediary Services Act ("FAIS").
- 6.2 The Investment form together with the Deed and the relevant Supplemental Deed will form the legal agreement between the investor and RCIS. The agreement will be administered in terms of CISCA. RCIS may in its sole discretion accept or reject the investor's Investment form.
- 6.3 Your transaction will be priced using the ruling price of the fund for the day the transaction is processed i.e. the day we receive all of the required information. Any loss will be for the investor's account.
- 6.4 Participatory interest is calculated on a NAV basis by determining the total market value of all assets in the portfolio, including any income accruals, less any permissible deductions from the portfolio. Participatory interest on investor statements is thus net of all fees.
- 6.5 Participatory interest will be purchased and repurchased by the manager at the NAV calculated in accordance with the requirements of the Act and the relevant deeds.
- 6.6 RCIS will email monthly statements and contract notes will be sent on execution of transactions. Tax certificates are generated and distributed annually.
- 6.7 RCIS may, at its discretion, close portfolios to new investors and existing investors to enable the portfolios to be managed in accordance with their mandates.
- 6.8 RCIS reserves the right to terminate this contract by giving a calendar month's notice to the investor. Participatory interest shall be redeemed on the 1st business day of the month after notice of termination at the ruling price of the last NAV. Any proceeds from the termination shall be paid to the investor bank account recorded in this Investment form (unless the investor has notified RCIS of a change in bank account details in writing).
- 6.9 Units will be bought and sold at the net asset value price in accordance with the requirements of the CISCA and the relevant Deed.
- 6.10 The responsibility of ensuring that an instruction has been received and actioned by RCIS will lie with the instructor (investor or financial advisor).
- 6.11 No cash payments will be accepted and a proof of payment is to accompany all EFT payments.
- 6.12 RCIS will not be liable for any damages or losses of whatsoever nature arising out of RCIS's failure to action an instruction due to occurrences beyond the control of RCIS, nor will RCIS be liable for any loss incurred due to incorrect information being supplied by the investor or his/her financial advisor.
- 6.13 Investments received after the investment cut off time shall be retained by the Manager in a separate account and invested at the next available trade date.
- 6.14 Should RCIS be required to appoint a tracing agent in instances where the information provided in the Investment form is no longer correct and up to date, any reasonable direct administrative, tracing and management costs incurred by RCIS in this regard shall be for your account and shall be deducted from any redemption proceeds due to you upon redemption of your investment.

SECTION 7 | MANDATORY DISCLOSURES

- 7.1 Collective Investment Schemes are generally medium-to long-term investments.
- 7.2 The value of participatory interests (units) may go down as well as up.
- 7.3 Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance.
- 7.4 Where different classes of participatory interests apply to certain Portfolio's, they would be subject to different charges.
- 7.5 Collective investments are traded at ruling prices and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending.
- 7.6 A schedule of fees and charges and maximum commissions, is available on request from RCIS.
- 7.7 RCIS does not provide any guarantee in respect to the capital or the return of the portfolio.
- 7.8 RCIS may suspend repurchases for a period, subject to regulatory approval, to await liquidity.
- 7.9 RCIS may borrow up to 10% of the market value of the portfolio where insufficient liquidity exists in a portfolio, or where assets cannot be released to withdraw or cancel participatory interests.
- 7.10 RCIS reserves the right to close the fund to new investors if we deem it necessary to limit further inflows in order for it to be managed in accordance with its mandate.
- 7.11 Forward pricing is used.
- 7.12 In terms of the Collective Investment Schemes Control Act, No.45 of 2002 (CISCA), FirstRand Bank Limited (acting through its RMB Trustee Services Division) has been appointed by RCIS as the Trustee.
- 7.13 Investment and Redemption Instructions will be processed according to: The transaction cut-off time as well as the Subscription and Redemption guidance stipulated within the General Information section of the Minimum Disclosure Document.
- 7.14 Any capital gain realised on the disposal of a participatory interest in a collective investment scheme is subject to Capital Gain Tax (CGT).

A money market portfolio is not a bank deposit account. The price of a participatory interest is a marked- to-market value. The total return to the investor is made up of interest received and any gain or loss made on any particular instrument, in most cases the return will merely have an effect of increasing or decreasing the daily yield. In the case of abnormal losses it can have the effect of reducing the capital value of the portfolio. Excessive withdrawals from a money market portfolio may place the portfolio under liquidity pressure and in such circumstances a process of ring-fencing of withdrawal instructions and managed pay-outs over time may be followed.
- 7.15 Where foreign securities are included in a portfolio, this may impose potential constraints on liquidity and the repatriation of funds. The portfolio can be impacted by macroeconomic risks, political risks, foreign exchange risks, tax risks, settlement risks and potential limitations on the availability of the market information. Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of underlying offshore investments to go up or down.
- 7.16 A Fund of Funds Portfolio only invests in other portfolio's of collective investment schemes which levies its own charges, which could result in a higher cost structure for these portfolios.
- 7.17 RCIS manages Portfolios which are co-named portfolios and third-party named portfolios, however RCIS retains full legal responsibility for these Portfolios as manager in terms of CISCA.
- 7.18 RCIS performs Risk Management oversight on all portfolio's.
- 7.19 Application forms can be obtained via the RCIS website www.realfin.co.za and any additional information can be requested from RCIS at manco@realfin.co.za
- 7.20 Should you have any complaints, please send an email to complaints@realfin.co.za. Our Complaints Policy is available on our website: www.realfin.co.za.
- 7.21 RCIS has a Conflict of interest policy, Protection of Personal Information Policy and Treating Clients Fairly Policy which is available on request.
